Concerns Survey- Dave Jenkins

- Concerns Survey will start next week. This will be a hybrid model with in person distribution
- The survey will be given to randomly selected inmates
- Cumberland and the Eastern Shore will do this electronically
- We will compare last year's names to this years selected names to make sure we don't inadvertently select the same name.
- Some concerns that some participants have answered the same questions as before and this should resolve that issue
 - Fred Mason- Will the survey include questions specifically related to COVID response, PPE or is that captured in the response regarding workplace safety?
 - Dave Jenkins-This will come up under the mandated questions regarding health and sanitation in the plant. There is a numeric rating and a comment section If there is concern. We haven't added a question specifically about COVID. Once we report out our results we include that as an item. As an organization, we have been careful about this. Of course we want to hear from the inmate work force about this

They have given us a lot of their training material to use as our own. At the end of this program they will learn how to set up their own business. They will come up with a model to be a participate in a mock Shark tank. Secretary Green is excited to be one of the judges for this.
- We are prepared for the Black Caucus meeting on Thursday. We had a meeting with DPSCS and we submitted a presentation.

- We have 400 tablets on their way. Our RFP finally went through and signed. We are currently in the process of hiring someone to oversee it all that will be based at the Baltimore location. This person will be in charge of going out to the schools for training. We have purchased software used for our transition, reentry, and occupational testing through NCCR and ASC. We are excited to get those out.

- We have 2 companies going out to give us quotes on the cellular extenders to enhance the signals going to the tablets at the schools

Open Forum

Dave Jenkins

- Danielle -What is the status of legislation that would award additional days with the completion of vocational training?  - Medical contractors: 2
 - With no hospitalizations.

- Customer Survey Results were positive – most customers rank us Good or Excellent. We are always looking for more participation, so spread the word

- Tom Hickey recommended we add follow up questions to survey about any negative experience.
- Current electrical PIE program is expanding to welding and painting.
- New PIE Program starting in April with a Hagerstown-based furniture company. Four more participants are being brought on board bringing total to eight participants.
 - Jack Weber noted that he would like to expand opportunities with our PIE partners
 - Jack also noted he would like to look at the sales reports (this was shared with members after the meeting) and see where we were in regards to participant stipends.
 - Stephen noted we are working to be in the top and in addition to stipends offer 4 months off of sentences for each year of participation
 - Mark noted we are in the process of completing a study on stipend practices. He also noted MCE participants do not pay taxes or any further deductions. If a civilian makes $18 per hour, they have approximately $100 to spend as discretionary income at the end of the month after paying for living expenses. Incarcerated individuals in MCE programming are averaging higher discretionary income.

- Welcome new hire Adam Cummings as Executive Assistant.
- Ashley Lohr is now the Director of the MCE Management Council.

Catalog Review - Nicole Copeland

- Marketing has undergone some changes this year that have been positive.
- Starting in October of 2021, audits have been conducted on our catalog, in anticipation of changes coming in FY23.
- COVID-19, inflation, and supply chain issues have caused price changes, as we see costs for components of our products to rise. (Metal, cardboard, envelopes, tables, seating, etc...)
- 149 Products have been removed from the catalog due to poor performance or discontinuation from suppliers. (Seating, lockers, tables, signage, graphics, and promotional items).
- The New Products Committee has been started again. Great opportunity for our partners to suggest new products to add to our catalog.
- By FY24 we plan on adding new products to the catalog.

Participant Stipends - Mark Rowley

- Legislation was aimed at MCE to implement minimum wage to our participants.
- We opposed bill, but have conducted a 6-month study on inmate compensation.
 - The study has pointed to us changing back to daily rates of pay, instead of hourly rates.
- The new scale based system will include increases, and be based on longevity within MCE.
- Due to inflation and needing approval from D.O.C. this is still in the preliminary stages.
 - Expectation is that this increase will cost an additional 250k.

Question by Janet Lane: “It makes sense, but what happens with overtime?”

Answer by Mark Rowley: “We still pay overtime, but as we are in the preliminary stages, we are still working it out a formula to account for overtime.”

Private Sector Analysis - Ashley Lohr

- MCE only accounts for 0.20% of the manufacturing sector for the state of Maryland.
- MCE has little impact on manufacturing employment in the state of Maryland.
 - MCE accounts for 0.76% of employees in Maryland.
- None of our individual manufacturing entities account for even 1% total share in Maryland.
- According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics - 40% of available of manufacturing jobs remain vacant we are no displacing employees.
 - There are opportunities for our participant’s post-release in the manufacturing sector.

Reentry Update - Janet Lane

- MCIW had its first two female CARES graduates on June 3rd.
- 16 women at MCIW completed a money management course.
- 13 women at MCIW completed a relationships course.
- Mentoring classes are set to begin this summer. They are a half day class with a certificate.
 - This was suggested by a participant who wanted to recognize a coworker on his mentorship to him.
- Currently in the works is getting CARES classes at MCIJ. Furthermore, it would be ideal to add a virtual component, which would allow more classes to occur across the facilities.
- On May 18th 4 men graduated from Goucher University.
- On June 21st 19 (current and former MCE participants) men will graduate from peer recovery specialist training.
- Janet is working on expanding companies willing to hire formerly incarcerated individuals; she has toured places of employment such as Atlas Container Shop in Severn, MD and Iron Mark Printing in Annapolis, MD.
- Currently working on streamlining bank account processes with Truist Bank for participants.
 - Working on a paper application for DOC staff that isn't too involved.
- There is a new transition house in Hagerstown that is offering workshop development
- DPSCS, Dept. of Labor, and Maryland Workforce Exchange are working towards making tablets available to for pre-release incarcerated individuals.
- A partnership is forming with Sharp Dressed Man, a non-profit suit provider, to have MCE work on tailoring outfits.
- From April through June 49 participants will be released, and we were able to help 26 of them.
- There is a sorority that wants to assist MCE in some manner.
- There will be a Webinar on the business of food next week, June 22nd.

- We have someone who was on work release out of ECI. We were able to get them an interview at a company that does food research, and they've never hired a previously incarcerated individual before. He got the job and receives high praise doing facility management. He wasn't even released and he completely blew away the competition.

Question by Fred Mason: Are people getting work faster with the job market looking more opportunistic?

Answer by Janet Lane: Yes, it is happening much quicker. Employers are having trouble maintaining staff. Our shops train people to be more professional and prepared for the interview process. This shows with our participants who are with us for more than just a few months, it takes time. Offers come more quickly with the soft skills that are being developed within the shops.

Answer by Stephen Sanders: Also, if you have been able to go on the tours of the shops and talk to our people, you really can see the difference our programming makes. They are able to articulate their job, present themselves as employable, and are knowledgeable and passionate.

Review of Recommendations - Council

Ashley Lohr:

- We would like to continue to follow the goal of recommendation 1: Investigate the Justice Reinvestment Act (JRA). Furthermore, we would like to revise it to include continuation of reentry efforts through an expansion of an apprenticeship program which will allow us to expand into different fields to get outside certifications.
 - This includes hiring a Research and Development Specialist.
- The second recommendation is to maintain the prior goal of last year; to continue to expand and enhance the PIE program.
 - This year we have a new partner in Beachly Furniture which has brought our participant counts up to 12 from 8 in MCIH.
- The third recommendation is to continue to improve and expand programming to improve financial literacy. This is a continuation of the previous years' goal.
 - MCE began hosting classes in financial literacy this year.

- The last recommendation is to expand the CARES program. The goal is to have it at MCIJ.
- This recommendation will also include reviewing and updating CARES curriculum with EBP in facilities where CARES already exists (MCIH & MCIW).

Question by Thomas Hickey: “When will we be voting on these recommendation?”

Answer by Ashley Lohr: “We will be sending out voting virtually for these recommendations.”

Management Council Member Report - Council Members

Danielle Cox (Department of Labor):

- There have been a lot of shut downs in Hagerstown facilities, due to officer shortage.
 - School is being impacted - classes only 2-3 days a week.
- Packets are being provided during times when classes are shut down, but it is not sufficient. Providing packets but it is impacting GED and courses.
- Cellular extenders are stuck in procurement.
 - 250 tablets have been provided, but there are still 400-500 outstanding. Need stronger cellular strength in facilities to account for this.
- Testing for occupational certificates have halted due to firewall issues. This is being worked on to get back to testing.

Question by Janet Lane: “Are incarcerated individuals receiving training on how to use a tablet?”

Answer by Danielle Cox: “Teachers have been trained on how to train the incarcerated individuals.”

Fred Mason (Department of Education):

- School construction for funding FY23 has been finalized.
- State funding can now be used towards furniture, fixtures, and equipment.
- School systems are encouraged to do more business with MCE.

Juliana Palmer (Governor's Office of Crime Prevention, Youth, and Victim Services):

- Not much to add at this time. Was on maternity leave and just returning.
- Reviewing FY22 applications for reentry and how to collaborate with MCE.

Melvin Forbes (Wilkerson's Sports Enterprise):

- Supply chain issues are hurting everyone, especially the private industry.
- Thanks MCE for dealing with all of the different challenges we face.

Question by Melvin Forbes: With costs rising (e.g. gas), what impact does that have on MCE in procuring raw materials for projects? How does it affect our bottom line? Can we amend projects to increase cost on the other end?

Answer by Mark Rowley: We've seen costs increases across the board.

Answer by Ashley Lohr: Projects that have been previously quoted, we cannot go back on. We have increased prices with DGS, for example. We have seen some specialty changes for catalog items. July 1st we will see more adjustments.

Answer by Stephen Sanders: We have seen much longer lead times and temporary products that are unavailable, quantity or otherwise. It has been manageable but not easy.

Phil Morgan (Deputy Commissioner of DOC):

- The tour with DGS went extremely well and it was nice to see the pride that participants and MCE employees have in their work.

Thomas Hickey (University System of Maryland):

- Currently working with Ashley for tour with USM procurement scheduled for September 15.
- Tour participants need state IDs; they typically have student IDs.
 - Ashley is working on that and will be sending out background information next month (July).
- University System is sponsoring the Governors Small Business Summit with DOT/DGS.

- If interested in attending it is on October 31st at Turf Valley in Ellicott City, with a small registration fee. It is meant for MBEs and they are provided training and other information.

- FY'23 - 1st quarter sales were up 7%, FY'23 $11.6 million vs. FY'22 $10.8 million.
- Our financial auditors told us that they expect the final report to show no deficiencies. Also, we are pleased that the draft of their audited FY'22 financial statements show a net profit of $1.7 million (3%) after an audit adjust for the Net Pension Liability. 3% is the goal established by the MCE management team. This is the first year that we've achieved that goal in more than three years.
- MCE went live in October with our new ERP system (phase 1). As to be expected, we were met with some challenges with the new software. However, we put together an implementation team is working together with our shops and all of our employees to resolve the various challenges a project of this magnitude brings.
- We are preparing for the upcoming legislative session which brings a multitude of questions from DBM and the Department of Legislative Services as new bills are introduced.
- We look forward to a legislative tour for our newly elected legislators sometime in 2023. We will advise the council of any scheduled tours.
- Upcoming Projects Installs:

- College of S. Maryland (Center for Health Sciences - Between Dec. and Jan.)
- Frostburg State (Education & Health Science Center - Between Dec. and Jan.)

 - State Dept. of Assessments and Taxation - move date Oct. 2023 - in design.
 - Comptroller's Office - move date Oct. 2023 - meeting set for next week.
 - Dept. of Planning - move date Aug. 2023 - met with them yesterday.

 - Dept. of Labor, Dept. of Information Technology, Dept. of Health, Dept. of General Services, and Dept. of Disabilities - all slated for a move day in 2024.
- MCE is being proactive on re-entry. In line with the incoming Governor's "Education Agenda", MCE has budgeted $150,000 in FY'24 for post-release training and education.
- In addition, we are looking to increase program participants' pay for our warehouse workers. These participants are closer to release than other individuals. We believe an increase in pay for these participants is a good investment in re-entry.
- We are very happy to announce that our MCE Program Participation is at 1,027; ahead of our goal of 1000 program participants.
- We provided holiday lunch in the way of a sub with all of the fixings, taken directly from our Meat Plant, including a can of soda and a bag of chips for each one of our program participants. This is a tradition that the men and women look forward to each year and enjoy very much.

- We are very pleased to announce that our vacancy rate has dropped from almost 30% to 23%! We have 7 candidates in background and have 5 recruitments pending.
- MCE will be attending winter MACO conference between January 4th through the 5th.
- We are currently working with Aramark as they have taken over food distribution for DOC.
- A special thanks to our own Management Council member Melvin Forbes who brought an exciting new concept to the table; MCE and the PINC room are working together on a project to create a program in which MCE program participants learn the skills necessary for professional wig assembly and styling. This program will be limited in scope and is not intended to be a revenue generator for MCE. The intent is to bring a new skill to the incarcerated population, teach them how to be entrepreneurs and to give back to the community by donating the finished products to cancer patients here in Baltimore. The long term plan is to partner with John Hopkins University Hospital. Although this program is in the planning and design phase, MCE wanted to share our excitement to the Management Council, as it is the season of giving.

Question by Jack Weber: How have supply lines been working and have we been engaged with our vendors?

Answer by Stephen Sanders: We took your advice from our last meeting and things have improved. We have reaped the benefits of paying our bills on time. It is still a struggle, as sometimes we have to go to multiple vendors, but we are doing much better since the last time we discussed this.

FY23' Participant's Concern Survey & Catalog Review - Ashley Lohr

- We have completed the Participant's Concerns Survey. 13% of the MCE population was surveyed.
 - The questions changed this year from a numerical system to an agree/disagree statement system.
- Findings:

- Over 80% satisfied with safety.
 - Any immediate safety concerns were addressed immediately.
 - MOSH training has started at Metal Plant at MCI-H.
- Over 85% of respondents were satisfied with training quality received.
 - This was the highest rating of all the questions.
- Over 65% of respondents were satisfied with stipend and promotional opportunities.
 - This was the lowest scored category, as in past years.
 - There was much desire for cross training in the shops.
- Over 68% indicated they were aware of CARES programming and reentry services.
 - We are working on expanding CARES to more institutions.

Comment by Thomas Hickey: I liked how it was broken up by institutions. There appears to be some issues at ECI and Textiles Shops.

Response by Ashley Lohr: There have been a lot of new changes at that location. We are working to improve those issues.

- Tom Hickey moved for approval of the Concerns Survey Report.
 - Jack Weber seconds.
 - No objections. The MCE Participant's Concern Survey for 2022 is hereby approved.
- Catalog Pricing

- Seeing significant increase in pricing of raw materials which has caused several of our prices to increase.
- In July, MCE's pricing committee was changed from DGS to the Pricing Selection Committee.
 - We submitted immediate price changes for metal shelving, hats and mattresses.
 - We will be submitting over 300 price changes for the FY'24 catalog; many prices have not been increased in several years.

Comment by Jack Weber: Concerning the catalog - it would be great for future catalogs to have some of the stories of the individuals who have participated in MCE programming. The connection may be helpful because of previously negative connotations of MCE. Also, it would be beneficial to put some stories in our Annual Report. The bottom line of MCE is helping people release into society, so highlighting that is important.

- We will be electing the Council Chairperson at the March meeting. If you are interested in being the Council Chair, please let Ashley know.
- Lastly, we have hired a new reentry team - Henrietta Yekeh Bazzie!

Board member Jack Weber introduces his current employee at Uptown Press and former MCE participant, with 27 years of service, David Hartlass, to say a few words

David Hartlass: I have been a part of MCE for 27 years in various positions within various shops. I would like to thank everyone from MCE, especially Janet Lane. She assisted me greatly during my pre and post-release. MCE was such a wonderful resource and I am thankful to have been a part of the program.

Reentry Update - Janet Lane

- We welcome our new Reentry Specialist, Henrietta Yekeh Bazzie. Ms. Bazzie comes to us from the D.C. Detention Center.
- We met with members of the Eastern Atlantic Carpenter Union at their education headquarters in Upper Marlboro. We are excited to be planning to launch a new carpenter apprenticeship that will prepare participants to step into union carpenter positions upon release.

- We met with All American Intelligent Solutions from Anne Arundel County. Their company plans layouts and installs office furniture all over Maryland and are eager to hire former MCE.
- We have completed three Mentoring and Leadership classes; one at MCI-H combining shops #122, #124, and #125, one at RCI, and one for #109 at ECI-E. All class participants receive an MCE Certificate plus a JSTP certificate from the Department of Labor. Our next class will be at JCI in January. So far, 63 men have completed the class.
- We gave a tour of the JCI shops to members of the Annapolis City Police who provide reentry support and wanted to see what our participants learn.
- We had a second meeting with Total Electric regarding a computer based Revit Design P.I.E.C.P program at MCI-W. This will be an outstanding opportunity for the women, and will expand on our current CADD design training. One of our C.A.R.E.S graduates might be the coordinator of the program with us and she will be working full time for Total. She will qualify for HDU and will parole in February.
- 13 MCE participants released in October. We assisted 9 of 13. 10 MCE participants released in November and we assisted 6 of 10. So far, 17 will be releasing in December including another CARES graduate. Four will release to federal detainers. We will assist 9 of 17. Thank you to Jack Weber for his assistance with one man this month and another last month who released after over 30 years. A number of people release immediately by the parole commission. We make every effort to follow up.
- 163 MCE people released over 2022. An average of 14 per month. Some did not return to the community. Three died, at least two per month release to detainers, some refuse assistance, a few were terminated or had too little time with MCE.
- Ms. Bazzie attended a resource fair sponsored by Employ Prince George.
- Our next C.A.R.E.S program classes will be at MCI-J starting in January.

Members Reports

- Joseph Cox: Thomas Myers is on the call. He is a dedicated MCE employee and head of the local 1772 out of Hagerstown Correctional Institutions. I would like him to replace me. Ashley Lohr: This appointment has to go through the Governor's Office. We will get the process started after this meeting.

- Carly Seidman: No updates. I am replacing Juliana Palmer and I am more than happy to be here.
- Jack Weber: I've said enough already.
- Janay Harris: We have given away 3 vehicles to 3 families in need! 17 people are currently enrolled. 2 have offer letters. 5 are work release participants. Things are going well at Vehicles for Change. Happy holidays!
- Krishnanda Tallur: I am here on behalf of Maryland State Dept. of Education, as former member, Fred Mason, has transitioned out. What is the process for me participating in the interim, before the next representative is chosen? Ashley Lohr: We will connect offline with you after the meeting.
- Delegate Mark Chang: The testimony given by David Hartlass was incredible. The legislative tours and hearing testimony like that for policy makers will be great. To have them hear about those stories is of the utmost importance.
- Melvin Forbes: Thank you all for doing an incredible job. We do not always receive the glorification we deserve, but we need more of those stories, such as David Hartlass, because that is what we are all about. Commendable for you and your team, Stephen. It doesn't happen by yourself, but it also comes with leadership and vision that Stephen has exemplified. I am glad to be a member.
- Thomas Hickey: Thank you for hosting the procurement team for an on-site visit. Very educational for a lot of folks on tour, and thank you for lunch. College park is having some issues with MCE. We will meet after the New Year and come to a resolution. They said they have been working with Ashley, so I know they are in good hands. I'm glad you met with Intelligent Solutions, hopefully it bears some fruit. The CADD design group is perfect for Intelligent Solutions.
- Jack Weber and Delegate Mark Chang suggest that MCE consider a potential name change (e.g. Maryland Reentry Enterprises) and how rebranding now is a good idea. Ashley Lohr: We will explore it and can cover it more at the next meeting in March.

- Thomas Myers: Thank you for the opportunity to join the board. I have been a Correctional Officer for 21 years prior to working with MCE. You miss out on what MCE does with reentry if you aren't a part of the shops. Now as a supervisor of the Metal Shop, I get to see the pie program and the workers and it is a great opportunity for the participants. Happy to be a part of it.
